

Assumptions
1	We assume that an airport can be without routes
2	We assume that a route cant exist without two routes furthermore we assume that brianair will never do stopovers
3	Since this was a "bad" idea we assume that a plane can lift with no passengers (no reservations are made)
We assume not everyone has a middle name
We assume that you can pay more than one booking in one go but you cannot pay a booking by different accounts
We furthermore assume that a contact person is a subtype of passenger since they are a passenger but has one more role of being a contact person
We assume that an airport can have 0 routes like Oskarshamns airport that has been permentally closed :)	